ing, were guests of Mark Donaldson
and family Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Kash has returned from a visit to her son, Brutus Kash
and wife at Keystone, W. Va.

Mrs. Lyons returned to her home at Searsville, Tenn., Tuesday after a visit to relatives here.

Clark Bassom and daughter Miss Sue, of Millersburg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ewing.

Lacy Byron, who is traveling for Robison Bros. Hardware Company, of Louisville, visited his parents for the week end.

Omar Barber, who is employed in the Louisville Custom's House came to visit relatives and friends last week and remained for the election.

Ed Gallagher and wife, of Lexington, visited the family of Mrs. Galagher's brother, John Reid and family Sunday.

H. S. Goodpaster, of Frankfort
Secretary of the Kentucky Jockey Club, came Saturday to visit his parents, Judge C. W. Goodpaster and wife and to be here for the election.

Messrs. Brooks and Carroll Estill
Byron, Virgil, Bassom and E. D.
Thompson attended the foot-ball game at Danville Saturday between Centre College and State College.

Misses Virgaline Byron and Lucille Vice visited friends in Danville Saturday and Sunday and attended the foot-ball game between Centre College and State College Saturday afternoon and a dance Saturday night.

M. T. (Porter) Case, who has been employed for some months as guard
at a whiskey house in Maysville, came last week and remained until the election. His residence is still at Frankfort. He is laid off his job for a time.

babe, of Ashland, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Elliott.

Albert Clark, who has been running as express messenger between Lexington and Cincinnati visited his Parents, Jas. Clark and wife for several days past. He has resigned his position as express messenger
and has secured a place in the Cincinnati postoffice.

Mrs. Ella Robertson

Mrs. Ella Robertson died at Galveston, Texas, Monday morning, her death resulting from a stroke of paralysis suffered last May. Mrs. Robertson was Miss Ella Daugherty before her marriage to Adie O. Robertson. She was the youngest daughter of John C. Daugherty and wife and was reared in this town,
where she has numerous relatives and many friends. Among relatives who survive her here, are her sisters,
Mrs. J. W. Hutchison and Mrs. W. P.
Conner and niece Miss Mae Daugherty. Her two sons, Ernest and John of Galveston and Groverton, Texas, also survive her. The burial was at Groverton, Texas. Deceased was 66 years of age.

A meeting of tobacco growers was held at the Court-house Saturday afternoon for the purpose of taking an inventory of the progress of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association in Bath county. It was shown that all but about 140 acres in the county had been signed and a strong effort is being made to corral the 140 acres.

Seeing Is Believing

R. C. BYRON.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

There was a great turnout in the vote at Tuesday's election. Ewing Conner, Dem., for County Judge was elected over Harry McCue, Rep., by a majority of something over 100.

Rolt. Anderson, Rep., for Jailor, was elected by a majority of about 140 over Claud Staton, Democrat.

The race between Thos. L. Jones, Dem., and Luther Warner, Rep., for Tax Commissioner is very close and it may take the official count to determine who is elected.

Van Green, Dem., carried this county over Jennings, Rep., by about 100
for Representative in the Legislature,
but it is reported that Jennings carried Rowan county by 150.

The balance of the Democratic nominees for county offices had no opposition. Lewis Barber, Rep., was elected Magistrate in the Wyoming Forge Hill district.

J. Milton Steele and W. M. Garner were elected members of the Board of Education over Isaac Crain
and Albert Wells by substantial majorities.

City Election

Haden J. Lacy was elected Mayor without opposition.

C. W. Young was elected Police Judge over W. W. Power by a vote of 230 to 102.

The ticket for Councilmen known as the old ticket composed of T. M.
Perry, Andrew Denton, John Reid,
Walter Young, L. D. Brother and J.
W. Barnes, was elected.

HONAKER-BOTTS

Robt. Lee Honaker, aged 17 years, son of John W. Honaker, and Miss Constance Botts, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Botts, both of this town, eloped to Ironton, Ohio
Thursday night, and were married.
Mr. Honaker and his bride spent Saturday and Sunday night with Ec-ton Botts, brother of Mrs. Honaker, in Huntington, West Virginia, returning home Monday and going to the home of Mr. Honaker's father, where a welcome and a wedding dinner awaited them. Mr. Honaker is an intelligent, well educated young man of excellent character and capable of succeeding in any line of business he might undertake, while his bride is a charming and accomplished young lady. The marriage of this extremely youthful couple was a genuine surprise to even their most intimate friends. They are receiving many congratulations.

Resolutions of Respect

HALL BATH LODGE NO. 40, I. O. O.
F.

Salt Lick, Ky., Oct. 25th, 1921.

Whereas— Almighty God in His wisdom, has called from this life the Rev. E. E. Dawson, and

Whereas— Brother Dawson was a member of Bath Lodge No. 40
I. O. O. F., Salt Lick, Ky, be it

Resolved, that in the loss of Bro.
Dawson, the Lodge has lost a faithful member, one who in his daily
walk and life, exemplified the principles of Odd-Fellowship, viz, Love, Friendship and Truth. His voice will be missed from our lodge room, but remembering what he said, how he always stood for clean living, for high integrity and ever ready to lend a helping hand, will always be a source of inspiration to his brother Odd-Fellows. Though he sleeps, his good deeds live. And be it

Resolved, that this lodge extends to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in their great loss. Knowing how impossible it is for us to fully comfort them in their sorrow,
we commend them to The Eternal Father, Who alone is able to soothe their grief. And be it

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minute book of the Lodge, and a copy be delivered to the family, and a copy printed in the Outlook.

OUTLOOK $1.50 PER YEAR

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION.

The President of the United States has issued a proclamation declaring Friday, November 11, 1921, as a day to celebrate the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice of the Great World War, and declaring the same to be a legal holiday and calling on the people of the United States to be patriotic enough to celebrate this day in an appropriate and fitting manner.

Bath Post No. 42, American Legion, will have charge of the ceremonies and acting in conjunction with and assisting the Legion the business men of Owingsville and the public schools will participate. A great parade will be given at or about the hour of eleven o'clock a. m. lead by the Owingsville Band in which will be all ex-service men in uniform, the Owingsville Schools, County Public Schools, Red Cross and business men.

Immediately after the parade and following a ringing of all the bells of town, an address will be delivered by H. A. Samuel M. Wilson, of Lexington, in the Court-house. At 1 o'clock or immediately thereafter exercises will be given to all ex-service men in the vacant store room
of J. J. Nesbitt in the Pool.

In the afternoon at one o'clock a program will be rendered in the Court-house with music and public speaking. At 2:30 o'clock a concert will be given by the Stroller's orchestra at the City School Auditorium.
You should not fail to be present at hear this orchestra as it is a complicated celebrated musicians. At 7:30 o'clock p. m. the Strollers will again
give a concert at the City School Auditorium for the benefit of Bath
Post, American Legion.

Bath County should turn out excessive to celebrate the greatest victory ever achieved in the world. Let the people stand by the American Legion and show appreciation of what the boys did for them in the Great World War. Let us endeavor to make this day long to be remembered and if you will lend your presence you will feel amply repaid for having attended this celebration.

New Cleaning and Pressing Shop.

E. W. Morgan and Watt Nixon will open a new dry cleaning and pressing shop Monday under the name of the Benzol Dry Cleaning Co. Mr.
Morgan owned a pressing shop here
for several years and the many friends he made while in this business before will be glad to learn of the return of such a successful and capable dry cleaner. They will inaugurate a free delivery service in addition to having their truck make regular weekly calls for your clothes.
In connection with the cleaning and pressing they will have an altering department where all kinds of repairing will be done at very reasonable prices. Heretofore it has been necessary to send certain kinds of repair work to Cincinnati or Louisville but with the opening of the Benzol Dry Cleaning Co. this will not be necessary.

The race for Police Judge in the City of Owingsville was a decided victory for C. W. Young who defeated his opponent Judge W. W. Power by a majority of over two to one.
Mr. Young is Owingsville's out-going Mayor and it is hoped that his services in the capacity of Police Judge will be as efficient and satisfactory
as those rendered as Mayor.

T. S. Shront has begun the erection of another dwelling house between the one occupied by Clyde Young and family and the one occupied by Austin Boaz and family.

Clyde Young and family have moved from Olympia to the house just completed by T. S. Shront on the corner of State Ave., and Coyle St.

If all the sheriffs in the State were like Sheriff Collins, Letcher county, convicts would soon be a thing of the past. In his term of office, less than two years, he has captured 83 stills and a proportionate number of still operators.

Postoffice To Be In New Building.

T. S. Shront has rented the brick building completed this fall, adjoining the Outlook office to the Government for a period of ten years for the postoffice. This building will be furnished as soon as practicable with modern postoffice equipment and the office moved into it. This building is conveniently located and will make a first class postoffice.

Show 'Shiners Good Time.

Robert Duff, newly appointed prohibition officer, came home Friday night after participating in raids for moonshiners with eight other officers in Virginia and in Kentucky counties bordering on the Virginia line. These raids resulted in the capture of five stills and three men charged with operating the stills. One of the stills, a new one, was captured with two men who were in the act of starting a fire to run it. Mr. Duff says hunting the elusive moonshiner is rather an exciting game as his habitat is among the wildest scenes of the mountains, and he never knows just when he has to go until he is ordered to report duty.

There have been eight convictions in the Mountain Circuit Court for violations of the prohibition law.

Saturday, November 12, 1921

AT 10 O'CLOCK

As agent for R. O. Richart I will sell at public auction, on the premises, 12 miles northeast of Sharpburg on the Sharpburg & Maysville model turnpike, the following property, which will be sub-divided and offered in three tracts and then as a whole.

TRACT NO. 1 contains about 120 acres and is all in blue grass, timothy and clover. This tract lays well and has plenty of water, is under good fencing, has large pike frontage. Improvements consist of an 8-room, 2-story brick residence, large, spacious halls, bay windows, tile mantels, grates in every room; house heated by pipeless furnace, has running water in the kitchen, sawed stone foundation, sawed stone walks around the entire house, 20-acre tobacco barn, 4-room tenant house, icehouse double corn crib. This is one of the most beautiful homes in Bath county.

TRACT NO. 2 contains about 35 acres seeded to rye. Plenty of large oak, walnut and sugar trees. Well watered and fenced. Improvements consist of a 6-room, 2-story residence, with good cistern at back door and all necessary outbuildings and adjoins tract No. 1.

TRACT NO. 3 contains about 50 acres and is all in blue grass, timothy and clover. It is well watered and fenced; improvements consist of a 4-room tenant house, 10-acre tobacco barn. This tract has considerable timber on it and adjoins tract No. 1.

ARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nine months, I suffered very little. I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. BENT, 131 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives. Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless age, give her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Lemon Juice Now Powdered. One of the newest fruit products is powdered lemon juice. It is pure juice reduced to a perfectly soluble powder. The process is said to be an adaptation of the well-known spray method of reducing milk to powdered form.

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of California Fig Syrup. If the little tongue is contented, the bowels will be contented. It is a powerful, yet gentle, cathartic, a teaspoonful will never hurt to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep California Fig Syrup handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine California Fig Syrup which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You need say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Put His Foot In It. She-it seems strange that you did not remember my face, yet you remembered my name. He (awkwardly)—Well, you know, you have an attractive sort of name.

Earning Her Title. "A Yates Center woman," says Dick Trueblood, "has to look after a sporty son, a gambling husband and a painted woman, and for that reason the neighbors refer to her as 'The Director of Sports.'"—Topeka Capital.

"What other money?"

"That which is sent from across the water for the cause."

"Oh, I see; there is more coming then."

"Coming, yes; maybe some is here already."

"How much did you owe the bank, Wine?"

"Between eight and nine thousand; it is overdue three months; now I promise to pay it all up tomorrow."

"Oh, you did, hey! out of that stuff, I suppose?"

"Well, yes, I get it, you think? Mein Gott, I have no more."

"Say," burst out Waldron suspiciously, "that's all right, but what bothers me is why this girl should hit you for it at just this particular time. Krantz must have sent her, but what made them think you had money now? It ain't very likely they were just taking a chance, is it? I believe that is all a d—n lie; they haven't got any more coming. Only I do think they imagined you might have some on hand."

"How they imagine that?"

"Search me, Wine; only I happen to know there is a d—n lot of it going on under the surface. It don't look good to me, they jumping you just at this time."

"What you mean? You have not spilled nothing?"

"Me!" he laughed roughly. "D—n it, I'm not the spilling kind. There's been plenty of fellows after the dope, let me tell you, but I've let 'em hunt. Say, I've had to laugh sometimes the way they've been fooled. You know that guy who called himself Horner?"

"Sure—a smart fellow."

"You bet he is; a d—n sight smarter than you think. He ain't got it all, if you ask me; his right name was Harris, as slick a crook as ever lived."

"Harris? a crook? What was it I saw in the paper? Wasn't he the same guy who was croaked last night?"

"You bet he was; that's what I'm telling you about; that's why I come up here to get this off my chest. He bluffed this fellow Horner coming over, blew in with all his papers, an' started pogotatting with Krantz and Alva. He—Alva got awful thick."

"I know; what was the game?"

"To get that check into cash, of course. He hung around for that purpose for weeks, an' then missed out."

"An' you knew him, an' never said a word?"

"I knew him, first time I got eyes on the bloater; but what was it to me? I'm not in this business for my health, Wine. I never gave a d—n who got hands on that stuff, so I had my grub at it. Harris an' I had it framed; that's why I was out there, waiting for a sign from him. But when he beat him to it, I'd just as soon be your running mate as his."

"Hush! don't talk so loud! And how you say Harris is dead?"

"As a mackerel; he couldn't be no deader. But that was my house where he was croaked, an' so I got to get out o' town. The police ain't wise as far, but they might tumble if I hang around."

"That's why you come here?"

"Exactly; I've got to have some rino right away, and it's up to you to see that I'm needed. You know where the stuff is, and how to get it quick."

"I wouldn't dare use that money yet; I haven't even opened the bag."

"The d—n you wouldn't! You are going to cop off enough to pay that note tomorrow, ain't you? That's what you promised the girl. Well, I'm just as important as she is, I reckon, and I'm going to have my share, too, bet, or else I'll make it hot for you—I'll say that."

"You haven't nothing but your own word."

"Ain't I! Say, Wine, don't be a fool; there are others beside us that's got a nose in this affair. There's a saloonkeeper down on Sixth avenue named Costigan, who's got all o' Harris' dope, an' he's going to keep on the trail. There's another fellow who's liable to raise h—l. I ain't got him exactly placed yet, but he's the guy that led up to Harris being killed. I'm the only one who knows that, an' I ain't talked before."

"Who is he—a detective?"

"Maybe; Harris called him Severn. They got the guy down into Costigan's and the three of us slugged him. They patched him up, and then looked him into a beat room over in my place. The next morning they was going to give him the third degree. Then with him safe, Harris went after this girl, thinking she would be made to talk. I didn't want to trouble with Harris, nor Costigan either for the matter of that—they're both of 'em bad actors."

"Well, then, what happened?"

"That's mostly guess-work. They had this guy Severn locked in upstairs. He was unconscious when we dumped him there, and later, when my wife got this girl to come over—they was raised in the same town—Harris he turned the key on her. They was aiming to bring them together the next morning, but somehow Severn must have woke up, an' got out o' the room, for the next thing I know'd he was fighting Harris out in the hall, an' after that I found the girl had skipped out durin' the fracas."

"They both got away?"

"Clean, leaving Harris behind with his skull busted; dead than a door-nail when I got to him."

LENIN BETWEEN TWO FIRES

Dictator is Finding It Hard to Grant Freedom of Trade and Retain Communism.

Riga.—Newspapers in Moscow give some inkling of the struggle in Russia during the first two months of the attempt to restore something like normal civilization along a line of Lenin's new policy to make freedom communists. Reform after reform has been announced, but the Moscow papers say that difficulties are arising at every turn.

Sevsky and other more radical writers, however, are filling the Pravda and Izvestia with arguments in which they attempt to show that free trade already has proved an utter failure. They are also adopting the "I told you so" attitude and suggesting that the communists are not so

"And you don't know who this Severn is or what he is up to?"

"No, I don't. Wine, but he's sure got some game on, an' he's got my goat. He's in with the girl all right, and knows too d—n much. That's what makes me teary about her being here pumkin' you."

"She didn't pump me."

"You mean to say the two of you didn't talk about Alva?"

"We talked about him, of course; we couldn't help it, but she never hinted at nothing, and she didn't ask no questions. Only it seems they've found out one thing that ain't been reported by the police—she knew what he was killed with."

"What's that? She told you what she knew?"

"You bet she did; she had one of 'em herself, an' took it out of her hat, and put it right down here on the desk. I thought for a second I was going to keel over, but she didn't notice, just went on talking. How do yer suppose she ever found that out?"

"Severn told her, that's how. It was dropped there in the dark. That feller got it some way, and hid it in his valise. That was what made Harris so sure he was in on the job, because he raided the room at some hotel and found the thing."

"You don't imagine the girl is playing us?"

"I don't imagine nuthin', but I'm playin' safe. I don't know what the h—l either of them are up to, but I figure they know too d—n much, an' ain't goin' to take any chances hangin' round my neck."

"That's my idea, to skip out while there's some chance to get away. So pony up what share, Wine, an' then you can do whatever you darn please with what's comin' to you. What do you say?"

"I could, but the other tramping nervously back and forth across the room. His failure to answer must have angered the Russian, for, after a minute, he burst out with an oath:

"D—n it, why don't you say something? Part o' this hoodlie's mine, ain't it?"

"Yess—of course."

"Well, then, cough it up! Where did you plant the stuff?"

"It's put away in a safety vault."

Wine explained, his voice almost failing him. "Honest, Waldron, I can't get it tonight, it's too late. The bank is locked, and I haven't opened it."

"You're a liar! You never dared to tug the thing around! You wouldn't be seen with it in your hand in daylight. I know you, you sneaking cur. You brought the stuff straight to this office that night, and, by God, I believe it is here yet. What do you want me to do—kill you, and then hunt? That's what's what's to happen, unless you come across, too. I'll shake the gizzard out of you, you little sneak, if you try any trick on me."

He must have gripped the other, for there was a struggle. Wine whimpering as though half choked.

"Speak up, you cur! This thing divides fifty-fifty. Where is it now?"

"That's behind those books! H—l, I wouldn't believe you under oath. Go get it out from there; let's have a look at the stuff."

He must have flung the other clear across the room, for he came down sprawling, his body striking against the door of the closet, behind which I frowned. The clutch broke, and the impact, and, before I could draw back, I was in full view of both men.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Death of a Murderer.

Wine, outstretched on the floor at my very feet, stared up at me, so startled by my sudden appearance as to be speechless. Waldron, oblivious of all else but the money, now almost in his possession, was upon his knees before a bookcase, dragging out the heavy volumes from the lower shelves, and then he came down, from behind these he had already drawn forth into view a black leather valise, when Wine found voice, uttering a strange cry of terror, which caused him to glance about. He leaped to his feet instantly, his eyes gleaming, and one hand hung back as though in search of a weapon.

I gave him no time. I leaped straight at him, striking so hard even as we grappled that the blow sent him reeling back against the bookcase. He knelt on the floor, and I was brought with it a fury which transformed the Russian into a wild beast.

Coward as I felt him to be, now that he was cowering, with the spoils of victory in his very grasp, he became a demon, a mad dog, whose only desire was to kill.

"You're fighting a man this time, yer h—l-bound; not a whiffler like Harris. I'll blow a hole clear through yer! Sneaked in, did yer? Well, yer'll never sneak out again! Say, how do yer like the taste o' that?" He struck with a knee in the stomach, grinning as I loosened my grip on his beard, and tried to butt into me with lowered head. I caught him instantly, with a free fist, rocking his head back and cutting a gash in his cheek from which blood spurled. If he possessed any self-control before, he lost it then, crazed with hate and the desire to kill. He was a barroom fighter, bound by no rules, capable of any ferocity—biting, gouging, using hands and feet, a ruthless savage. It was this which defeated him, for while I was neither cool nor clear of mind, I kept my head sufficiently to remember my training and accept every advantage that presented itself; more than that, the very threats with which he tried to goad me were guides to his own action, giving me the swift hint needed for defense.

Realizing Wine was back of me, I managed to swing the bulk of the buttling Russian about so as to block any surprise attack from the rear. This movement gave me the support of the wall, and, using it as a defense, I resorted to the same tactics adopted by Waldron, assaulting him with feet as well as hands, breaking his strangle hold on my throat and forcing him backward, so that a swift kick sent the fellow stumbling over a pile of books, clawing at the empty air for support. He would have gone sprawling upon his back if Wine had not been directly in the way. As it was, he struck the other, the force of his big body hurling the smaller man heavily against the ledge of the outer window. As the fellow struck, the glass shattered and crashed into a thousand pieces, but before Waldron could regain firm footing, or realize what had happened, was again upon him, breaking through his dazed stance and driving my fists straight into his face.

The revolver in Wine's hand was discharged, the bullet whistling past me, but even as the report cracked, the pressure of the Jew's body forced the smaller man relentlessly backward over the sill. He gave utterance to one wild yell of fright, releasing the gun and gripping desperately at Waldron's collar for support, then toppled over backward and went down.

We both heard the crash as the splinters of glass gave way, and the dull, dead thud of the body as it struck somewhere far below. The Russian seemed paralyzed with terror, unable to quite comprehend what had occurred behind him. But I had seen the tragedy, and my mind worked like a flash. He made one weak effort to spring aside, forgetful of his own danger, his guard dropped, and I let him have it straight in the jaw. The clenched fist crunched into his whiskers, and, with arms flung up, he went over as if shot, his head striking an edge of the overturned bookcase as he fell, and lay there motionless, a trickle of blood slowly oozing out upon the floor.

I stepped back and leaned out through the broken window; three stories below, on a gravelled roof, lay something black, huddled up grotesquely, which I knew was a human body, crushed helpless, its bones broken. I drew back from the gruesome sight, so sickened I reeled dizzily, clutching the sill for support.

I clung there, uncertain, dazed, my mind for the moment a blank, some one began rattling and pounding against the door leading into the corridor.

I crossed the room, my limbs trembling so I could scarcely walk, my breath coming in gasps. They were kicking against the door and pounding with fists, seeking to break in the lock. The sight sobered me, brought back my self-control and I threw the door open and faced them almost coolly. There were four policemen, one a gray-mustached sergeant, revolver in hand, and behind these a jam of excited individuals of both sexes, peering over shoulders to gain view within. The sergeant gripped me by the collar. "Now, you; what's up here? Have you killed somebody?"

"No," I answered, making no effort to break away, still breathing hard, but able to express myself clearly. "There is a man dead, but he fell from a window. I have nothing to conceal, sergeant. My name is Severn, and I am connected with the United States consular service. Give me a chance and I'll hand you my card."

He must have been impressed by the way I acted and spoke, for he released my grasp and accepted the card. I dashed out of a vest pocket, holding it up to the light in order to read the script.

Possibility of Another Ice Age.

A succession of such ages as that of the Mt. Katmai volcano in Alaska in June, 1912, would plunge the earth into another ice age by reducing the sun's temperature to a low degree on earth. Dr. Robert E. Griggs said before the American Association for Advancement of Science.

FURS IN DEMAND

American Peltry Is Thrilling in Expression of Style.

Broadtail and Caracul Are the Strong Favorites to Keep Out the Chilly Blast.

American furs are the beautiful creations of the age. They are so sumptuous, so luxurious and so thrilling in their expression of style. We are seeing lovely things made of American broadtail, that pressed lamb's skin in gray and taupe shades. There are short coats of this and wraps and long coats, each with its own beauty and style. One designer made a short suit of broadtail that will open the purse strings of many a smart woman this season. It has a skirt made straight and rather short and tightly fitted—this all of fur, and lined throughout with satin in the same shade of gray, so that it will slip on and off and around one's figure with the greatest of ease. Then there is a short and fitted coat made of velvet just as though it were made of tweed or some such ordinary material. It is the prettiest thing in the way of a suit that the American woman always has a lot of suits, has seen in a long, long while.

Then there are all sorts of lavishly expensive furs that the dealers are selling quite casually as though hard times had never been mentioned above a whisper. They would keep out the chilly blasts of Ireland, too warm and thick and so unsparring of width are they. The most popular fur of the moment is caracul, and this can be in any of the lighter, grayer shades or it can be in black, but always it is excellent in style as the law is written this season.

New Shades From Old.

When white window shades become soiled they can be easily renewed and freshened by a new coat of flat white paint. Take them down and unroll them and stretch them against a flat surface of wall or board. Give each side a coat of the paint, and when dry a darker shade of green or brown, whichever is preferred, can be put on one side, thus giving a practically new, double faced curtain.

Delicious Sweetmeats.

Malaga grapes are nice dipped in melted fondant, set aside to harden and then dipped in melted chocolate.

GLOVES ARE IN MANY COLORS

Handcoverings for Fall and Winter Include Kid, Dogskin, Calfskin and Variety of Silks.

There is a declaration in the shows of new autumn and winter gloves—kinds of groups and single pairs give evidence that there is a code in the wearing of gloves just as there is a system in adaptation of costumes to social occasions and to practical uses. That the great majority of glove buyers do not exactly carry out the glove creed does not disprove the intention for specific uses in hand garb.

Gloves for street wear retain the old kid skins, dressed and undressed, the former varied in dull lustered surfaces and others with a sprightly sheen in the finish. Dogskins are soft with a dull sheen—and now for a surprise in the announcement that calf skin is fashioned into smart street gloves of standard grades, dressed and undressed. The skin has been valued for driving gloves and for hard out-of-door uses—and now the skin is fashioned into a refined texture and appears in gloves for dress-up use.

Silk gloves are shown in profusion—they are to be a good deal used for evening wear, at the opera, theater, afternoon teas, and with the street costume. This fabric glove is so clinging to the hand, so easily adjusted, that it steadily grows in favor.

The new silk gloves for street wear are double, with long wrists, and are heavily stitched on the back. They are shown in black, white, and in colors to match new fabrics. One pair is a reddish purple, a new fuchsia tone, and the back has three rows of black stitching. Silk gloves for indoor occasions are woven with a heavy thread and the fabric is single. Some of them have daintily embroidered details. Evening gloves of kid are in all pale tones—white and cream are leaders, with black a close rival. Some of the black gloves have back stitchings in mauve, red, orange, or green. The all-black glove may be worn with good taste everywhere.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF

A great deal of hand embroidery is seen on children's frocks.

Many of the new hats of velvet fairly sweep the shoulders at each side.

Long coats are certainly in high favor among the designers, especially in the dressy or more elaborate styles.

Little shirred capes that extend all around the figure or serve merely as overgrown sleeve caps are frequently used in children's apparel.

Very Frenchy is the little miss who wears a silk duvetyne coat, long of waist and short of skirt, with bands of ribbon embroidery about the wrist cuffs that close tightly and upon the skirt and waist.

A negligee that resembles a coat and a model suitable for maid or matron has deep cuffs, wide pockets and a collar that extends way down to the hem, softly quilted, and it grows in such dainty shades as tea-rose pink and orchid.

Advice to the Stout Woman.

The woman who is at all inclined to be stout or to have hips that curve must be well corseted or else shun the tight bodice.

toilet articles are of tortoise, the Hings of moire, the leather is black seal.

THE CAPE FOR SPORT WEAR

One Model Has Simple Skirt Affording Garment Developed With Sweater Front.

A sport garment for women of a soft wool material in an indeterminate plaid, has the simple sport skirt and a cape of the material with what may be called a sweater front. It is straight, short, rounding out at the neck, and with no opening down the front.

The cape, which falls a little below the hips, buttons on at the sides at the top. The cape has a fur collar and little fur balls to match finish silk ends which can be tied. The edge of the cape and the pockets of the skirt are bound with silk.

Lace and Beaded Robes.

Lace and beaded robes for evening wear are being popular.

SOME NEW THINGS IN BAGS

Latest Contrivances in Leather Are Practical and Regarded as Beautiful.

When the smart woman goes traveling or shopping, she simply must have the right sort of bag.

The new leather shopping bags range in size from the smallest envelope shape with varied compartments in pasted tints and an enameled clasp, to the bigger handbags of tanned pigskin, colored morocco or black patent.

There is the small black or colored leather auto case all fitted up with everything for daily use.

There is the attractive overnight case, of buffed alligator or black cobra, lined with moire and fitted up completely. This is large enough for a nightgown and bedroom slippers and perhaps a diaphanous negligee.

As for the fitted suitcase, it is a work of art as well as of comfort.

And it's ten of coffee, fifty flour, that ev'ry nigger's takin', And it's twenty pounds of sugar and it's fifty more of bacon,

And calico and lead and drilins that he's cartin' through, With beaver peltries bringin' upward six dollars a piece;

Catch up! All's set! Stretch out! An' hep the cavayd away. Eight hundred miles is layin' on the road to Santa Fe.

"Now I know. * * *

I forgot all my adorable pink silk ones, and my bead bag. And the opera glasses, I should have told Ingebord * * *

"Never mind, dear; this isn't our honeymoon. See those things out there?"

They're silos * * * make cattle drunk. Hot as the devil, isn't it? There, how's that?"

"Last call fo' dinmah in the dinin' cych, Three cyahs fo'wad."

"Oo! Ice cream! I hope it's in those wet, cold slices, Sort of like cross-cuts of tan and strawberry marble, nice * * *

Wagh! Made the bank hot-collared, sick as shootin' on the run, An' we're miles from Independence and another day is done.

So lay down lazy on yer old apishamore mat, And smell the cherries bolin' in the yellor buffler fat,

And cut yer fleece-flaps with the grain and drink yer hot horns full; Tonight yer munchin' boudins from the belly of a bull,

And there's a bump-rib past all shakin' and there's beaver tails to eat, And the rattin' herd is under and the madder's makin' mat, Yer suttin' signs? Osages? Kawas? Pawnees? Arapahoes? Wagh! That's the old mulera * * * she's got cactus in her nose.

But if yer sure they're comin' some and all half-froze fer hair, Fer comfort get yer tacklin' with a scatter gun to spare,

And take an extry wipin' stick and flint * * * don't spill yer caps, And lay along the stakin' ground and shoot a few, perhaps,

The rest of us ain't skinnin' eyes, we're ridin' tired a heap, And if the devils drop around to rub us out asleep,

Just tug us up in buffler whang and cart us home and say That we failed at quittin' arrows and fell short of Santa Fe.

"This terrible desert! What makes the air wabble that way? Oh, I'm hot, dirty, sticky, groggy * * * I feel like Bourbon When he tries to yawn and howl at the same time * * * no pep."

"You've been drinking too much ice water * * * see 'em Unloading all those dead hogs back there? If they'd let them rest, then put wet dirt in the cars * * *

"Hogs! Look at me! See if you can't turn that fan!"

"No; it's screwed on."

Wagh! Fill yer wagon water kegs, five gallon to each one, Fer here's a stretch of hell that God left bein' in the sun.

From Arkansas to Cimarron is upward fifty mile, And if ye hit a water scrape ye'll lay wolf meat a while;

Two days if ye are pullin' good, forever if yer not, And once too weak to gear a dog, yer better off gut-shot.

Half over's stinkin' Sand crees, but it's always flamin' dry, And yer tongue will get to swellin' on mirages in the sky;

There's hants o' men out there that died a-suckin' prickly roots, And lickin' buffler bladders dry and chewin' parfleth boots;

And they say there's phantom oxen, with their yoke-rins jinglin' on, Appearin' white to pull yer through when all yer own are gone.

There's Blackfeet and Gros Ventres and Comanches, and there's Sioux, All campin' by the Cimarron to meet you when yer through.

So fill yer kegs and laugh it out, the stick floats every way, Catch up! All's set! Stretch out! And hep! Hi-ga for Santa Fe!

"So this is Santa Fe! Look at this skirt, my dear; look at it! * * *

Wonder what makes a train seem to slip backward When it stops?"

"That brushing did you a lot of good, I'll say. See all the flivvers!"

The porter says some of the cowboys are coming back Now that the movies are closing down."

Hep-a! Stick up yer possibles, and wash and comb yer hair, And put a cracker on yer lash and snap it through the air;

Ye hear the stallions squealin' cause they know they're gettin' through, And the ozen snifflin' water spoutin' at the rendezvous, Hep-a! Tie up yer trap-sack and sing out a good hurrah, Fer it's down the Alameda to the Plaza Publica!

There she is a-layin' yonder dreamin' lazy in the sun; And we'll have a grand fandango when the customhouse is done;

And the flirtin' senoritas will be welcomin' the chance Fer a sly buss in the prairie and a partner in the dance,

And we'll count cups together and be tellin' them the way How we put a million under just to get to Santa Fe.

Los Carros! Los Americanos! La entrada de la caravana! Bravo!

Buddhist Bible.

At Litang, about a hundred miles to the east of Batang, in Tibet, there is a large library, and in the lamapery of Derge, about 200 miles above Batang, in the Yangtze valley, the printing of religious books is an industry of importance. The Kanjur, which is the Buddhist bible, and the Tanjur, its commentary, each comprising 108 volumes, are printed in the two lamaseries from blocks on which characters are carved. The blocks occupy many large rooms and the printing of one set requires the work of many men for many days. In Litang, until recently, there was a copy of the Tanjur which was written out by hand in gold and silver. The paper had first been lacquered with Chinese ink. The gold and silver fluids in which the characters were written were made by rubbing the precious metals on a rough stone and mixing the powder with glue. It was destroyed a few years ago by Chinese soldiers who understood nothing of its value.

Heated Winds.

An intensely dry, hot wind called the "zonda," which blows down from the Andes upon the plains of Argentina, was formerly thought to owe its heat to volcanoes. It is really a "foehn," such as occurs in Switzerland and many other mountainous countries, where winds, robbed of their moisture in crossing the mountains, are heated by compression during their descent.

Fire Burns 130 Years.

Near Fort Norman, not far south of the Arctic Circle, fires have been burning continuously for more than 130 years. Man did not light them, nor does man tend to their burning. They feed on immense seams of lignite that, like some coal seams, have ignited spontaneously. Alexander Mackenzie, the explorer, first reported them in 1789 and at the same time he noticed that the heat from the subterranean fires had burned to a brick-red the shales that outcrop along the banks of the river that he named after himself. In fact, the shale beds had been converted into massive red bricks. It is likely, then that the fires had been burning many years before Mackenzie saw them. Virtually all the explorers who have visited that part of the Mackenzie River basin have noticed the underground fires, which make themselves known by the huge periodic bursts of smoke.
